

ABSTRACTS

Recently, China's economy maintains a growth rate of 10 percent with high-speed development, which is affecting the world economy. Since 1992 China-Korea amity, there has been rapid progress in economic exchanges. The economic cooperation between Korea and China two countries developed rapidly by companion relation in spite of time that is not long. Relationship with 21st century China and Korea immediately after forming a friendly relationship and the point which means becomes the relationship which is close at the degree it will not be able to compare which who does not negate from politics, economy and culture back all direction. In order to promote bilateral relations, it is essential understanding the law systems of the two countries. In this paper, first examined litigation system for intellectual property rights in China, and examined the on-line copyright dispute event that is doing grade important seat in copyright dispute after examine Chinese Psychological system of the copyright. Korea prepares in the Korea-China FTA which it propels recently at once a high leveling instrument FTA agreement from intellectual property right field agreement and it contracts, in order to press China it stands and it is evaluated that though still it is falling behind, against the intellectual property right system of China which it does is depth to research and the position which separates from this kind Korea-China FTA agreement hold to do and highly leveling instrument to agree in order, it leads and will be the possibility of going out also like this reading confronts to a Chinese laws and increases relates a proper gain and loss and will be the possibility becoming the opportunity which is the possibility of reducing administration of justice rubbing which with the intellectual property right infringement litigation between the both nations.

Key word : Korea-China FTA, Intellectual Property Rights, Litigation system, copyright dispute, on-line copyright, On-line Service Provider.